

Think ahead.

Sustaining high hygiene standards and productivity

Robust, easy to maintain and well-stocked hygiene and cleaning dispensers, placed exactly where needed, can increase hygiene compliance and efficiency.

From wipers and hand towels to skincare, Tork products address today's food processing challenges.

More than 50% of food processing production managers find it hard to motivate production line workers to comply with hygiene protocols¹

94% agree placement of hygiene and cleaning dispensers should be customized to the workflow of each area¹

97% agree continuous improvement and optimizing workflows are important to improving productivity¹

Sustaining hygiene compliance is critical for food safety

- High-capacity systems ensure continuous availability of hygiene products
- Systems that adhere to HACCP protocols
- One-at-a-time dispensing allows workers to only touch what they use

Created with efficiency in mind

- High-capacity means efficient servicing and reduced run outs
- Tork Washstation Dispenser can be used in wet areas subject to wash downs, without being covered or removed from the wall
- Flexible mounting options place dispensers where they are needed most ¹2021 Survey conducted by PRS Invivo between March 2020 to March 2021. The survey covered in the US and Germany, with 100 respondents in each market.
